Rough

This was used to ideate which tabs were going to be used. And create general idea of how the information would be displayed.

Intermediate

These were used on my storyboards. To act as a interim way to show to my team which tabs were going to be use. In the final design.

HTML

These were the HTML files of the features working. The design css stylings were changed to Ben's stylings in the end. However how the information were displayed and tabs were still my design.
